 TRADITIONAL AND STATISTICAL,
 RELATIVE TO PHILADELPHIA.

FOR ROBINSON'S DIRECTORY.

AT the arrival of William Penn, in 1682, there were eight or ten caves, that had been dug in the bank of the Delaware, and one house, which is yet standing, at the north-west corner of Front and Dock streets. It was built for a tavern, and ferry across the creek which then intersected the ground plot of the city, to the Swedish settlement and church at Weccacoe. There was also a meeting for divine worship, established by the people called Quakers, at Shackamaxon [now Kensington]; where resided the celebrated Indian chief, king Tammany, who has been popularly dubbed, according to the usage of European nations, tutelary saint of Pennsylvania.

It is traditionally remembered, that once, when the proprietary and his friends, in the city, were going to the meeting above-mentioned, after a sudden fall of rain, they found the inlet, over which is now thrown Pool's Bridge, so deep and turbulent, that they could not get over; on which William Penn, with all christian humility, proposed sitting down upon the logs, and there delivered the first sermon that ever was preached in Philadelphia.

No less than fifty sail of settlers arriving within the first three years, from England, Ireland, Wales, Holland, and Germany, provisions became very scarce, and many of the poor would have suffered for want, if the Indians had not supplied them with what little corn and venison they could spare; and if it had not been for the seasonable flights of wild pidgeons, which are said to have come in such flocks as to darken the air, flying at the same time so low that they could be knocked down with sticks and stones.

A meeting house was built upon the centre square, in the year 1684, with a view to the mutual accommodation of the future settlers, who were then supposed likely to form their establishments upon the Schuylkill, as well as the Delaware front of the city. One of the first plots for a burying ground, was accordingly laid out upon the west side of the river, near the intersection of Market street; and it is occasionally related, that after an interment in this ground, upon a winter's day, the attendants were bewildered in a snow storm, and with difficulty found their way back again to the bank of Delaware.

In the year 1717, the German Mennonists, and other foreigners, arrived in such numbers, as to impress the government with apprehensions of their becoming too powerful for the original settlers; or connecting themselves with the Indians, to the injury of the proprietaries. They, however, mostly settled in the country; and Philadelphia appears to have increased but slowly, from the beginning to the middle of the eighteenth century.

In the summer of 1749, however, no less than twenty-five sail arrived with German passengers, at once introducing 12,000 of those frugal and industrious settlers, from whom Pennsylvania derives so large a portion of her wealth and prosperity. Great numbers of emigrants also arrived about this time from Ireland, and other parts ; and the imports of the capital from the mother country, were increased in thirty years, from 15 to 100,000*l.* sterling a year.

About this time, viz. fifty or sixty years ago, such was the Lilliputian size of Philadelphia, that it was common to ride out on horseback to the country boxes of the citizens, many of which were within the present circumference of the town. To one of them called Rehoboth, which is now standing a little back from the street, in Fourth street between Vine and Callowhill streets, a friend of the writer remembers to have often gone, with other boys, two or three on a horse, for a country excursion ; and one of his acquaintances recollects a temporary abode in a house, now immersed in Third street ; where it was then thought prudent to get home before night, on account of a piece of dark woods between that and the city. Water and Chesnut streets were, long after this period, the principal streets in Philadelphia, and Fourth street continued for many years to be the extent of Market street to the westward, beyond which the squares were laid out in orchards and pasture grounds, under post and rail fence, excepting the garden of the famous Judge Kinsey, whose town-house is yet standing near Fifth street, subdivided into different tenements, one of which is occupied as a tin-smith's shop.

By the constitution of the United States, a population of 30,000 gives a right to send one member to Congress ; yet, although Philadelphia contained about 60,000 souls at the period of the last census, and now contains at least 90,000, we have but one Representative in the lower house. The inadequacy, nay, the impolicy of such a representation, for the complicated interests of the first city in the union, is too obvious to be enlarged upon ; and it is hoped that when the next census shall require a new apportionment of the national representation, the welfare of our most populous and commercial towns will not be indiscriminately sacrificed to the geometrical regularity of an election district ; but that the citizens of Philadelphia, and New-York, will enjoy the privilege of electing their own representatives in the proportion to which their population, no less than their comparative importance, entitles them.

REMARKS.

1. No ship or vessel, from foreign ports, or coming by sea from any port of the United States, shall be permitted to report, make entry or break bulk, till the master shall deliver to the postmaster all letters under his care, or within his power, other than such as are to be delivered at the port of entry, or such as are directed to the owner or consignee of such ship or vessel; and on oath or affirmation, to be taken of such delivery, the master to receive two cents for every letter so delivered.

2. Goods from foreign ports cannot be unladen but between sun-rise and sun-set, without special licence, under a penalty of four hundred dollars on the master, and every other person concerned, disability from holding any office under the government of the United States for seven years, and being advertised in the newspapers; with forfeiture of the goods; which, if amounting to 400 dollars, will subject the vessel, and apparel also, to forfeiture.

3. Goods removed before guaged and weighed, and if wines, spirits or teas, before being marked, without permission, are forfeited.

4. Persons giving or offering a bribe, forfeit from two hundred to two thousand dollars.—Inspectors and officers of the revenue cutters, may go on board, examine and search vessels, have access to the cabin, and seal packages; and after sun-set, secure hatches, &c.—Persons in charge of vessels, for breaking fastenings, but in the presence of an officer, forfeit five hundred dollars.

Philip S. Physick, M. D. Professor of Surgery.

Dean to the Board of Faculty in Medicine, James Woodhouse, M. D.

In those departments of this valuable Institution, where it is necessary on account of the number of Students, suitable Tutors of approved abilities are employed.

The University is an elegant and spacious building in Ninth street, between Market and Chesnut streets.—Connected with which there has lately been erected a large and convenient house, under the direction of the celebrated architect, B. H. Latrobe, for the accommodation of the Students in Medicine; which is now in a very flourishing state, and is considered as equal to any of the oldest seminaries in Europe.

The Medical students amount to two hundred and seventy, and are yearly increasing. They come from the West Indies, Canada, and from all parts of the United States. The degree of Doctor in Medicine is conferred on about thirty gentlemen, every year in this Institution.

The Students in the various departments of the Arts, Medicine, &c. belonging to the University are between five and six hundred.

COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS.

William Shippen, President; Adam Kuhn, Vice-President; Samuel Duffield, Samuel P. Griffitts, Thomas Parke, and Casper Wistar, Censors; Benjamin Say, Treasurer; Thomas T. Hewson, Secretary.

PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL,

ON WHICH IS ENGRAFTED BY AN ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE,

THE LYING-IN AND FOUNDLING HOSPITAL.

The patients to be admitted into this Hospital, are the sick in body or mind, except with contagious diseases; these are admitted from the Hospital Dispensary, as out patients.

Forty paupers are allowed to be received at one time and no more, the funds at present not being sufficient to provide for a larger number; but the charity will be extended to the poor, in proportion to the increase of the capital stock, which can only arise from future legacies or contributions, no tax being assessed on the citizens for the support of this institution.

In the mean time the affluent are received, as pay patients, from three to eight dollars a week, according to their circumstances in life, and the profit made by their board is applied with the interest of the capital, to the support of poor patients.

Accidents, however, such as fractures, bad bruises, are admitted GRATIS, if brought within twenty-four hours after they happen, and the doors are to be opened at all hours to receive them.

In all other cases, applications should be made to one of the attending physicians and managers, whose names are published monthly in Poulson's papers. But on the fourth and seventh day of every week, those managers and physicians attend regularly at the hospital from 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning, on purpose to receive and discharge patients, where if the applicant applies, it will often save much trouble.

Legacies are usually given in the corporate name, viz. "I give to the Contributors to the Pennsylvania Hospital, and to their successors, &c." Contributions and donations are sent or taken to

JOSEPH S. LEWIS, Treasurer,
25 Dock, between Front and Second streets.

The Editor informs the Members of the Hose Companies, that he has in the Press, and will publish on the 11th instant, an accurate description of the situation of the Hydrant Plugs.

The utility of such a publication must be obvious to the Members of these Institutions; as by consulting it, they will immediately find the exact situation of all the Plugs.—It will be printed the same size and stile of the Constitutions of the Hose Companies, and may be had of Wm. Woodhouse, No 6, South Front street.

From the 1st of February 1807 to the 1st of February 1808.
